

Spider Valhalla: A short, max-level scenario.

This one page adventure is intended as a max level scenario for any system being played. It is meant to play on the typical starting scenario of clearing spiders from the basement, with a twist. The characters have come full circle from their first adventure within the halls of Valhalla in the afterlife. The twist: Every spider that is slain in battle has also found themselves in Spider Valhalla.

Your party finds themselves on a sloping hill. At the top is a long hall with a roof made of interlocking shields. They can roll to determine if they are aware of the historical or religious significance of this place. It is Valhalla, the place where warriors go who have died in battle. Determine if they are here via a glorious death, a random portal, or some other means. A warm, gentle wind blows through, and they can see green and purple aurora winding across the sky.

As they make their way inside, they recognize several past allies and foes feasting at the many tables. They are eventually introduced to Odin himself. After a night of revelry, they are provided with a task to perform in the morning. It seems there are spiders in the basement that need to be cleared out.

Locations 1 and 2: The feasting hall. They are taken back in the kitchens with stairs (Exit A) leading into a series of sub-basements (Room 3).

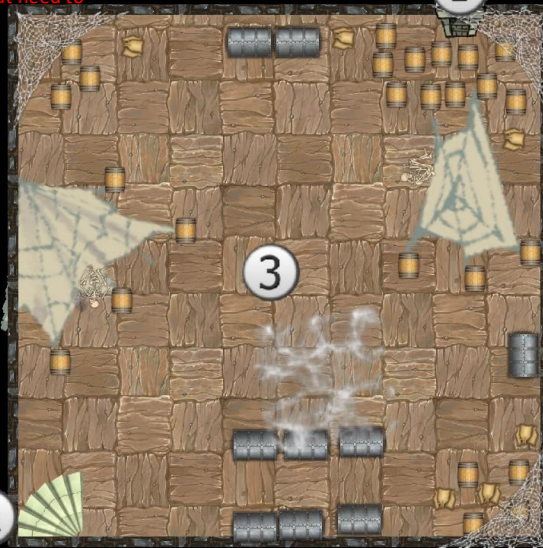

Location 3: The subbasements are infested with thousands of spiders. It is recommended to play this as a skill challenge or abstracted combat.

Increase the difficulty of monsters to swarms, giant spiders, etc. To adjust to their level, this could include waves of combat or other skill challenges.

As they explore, the webs become thicker until they find a hole in the wall (Exit B) to location 4.

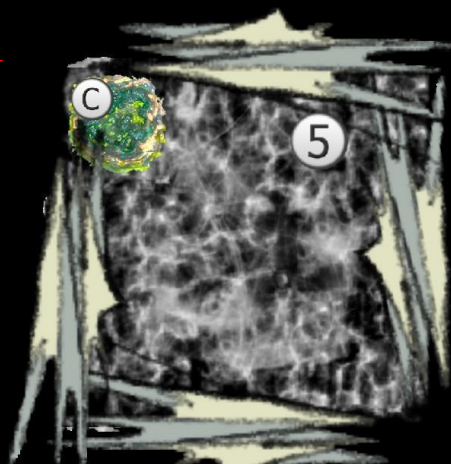

By: Joseph and William Renninger

Location 4: A series of interconnected webs within the an astral or demonic plane. They must transverse the webs avoiding environmental hazards as they face greater challenges associated with this plane such as spider demons. The strands themselves are large enough to walk side-by-side, extending into the distance as far as they can see.

The DM could include powerful cultists or worshippers of a spider god who can shapeshift into spiders themselves. At the center is a web funnel (Exit C) leading to location 5.

<https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-sa/4.0/>

Location 5: The pit where the demonic spider queen, her avatar, or equivalent in your setting resides. This could be a two-part battle with both a human and large demonic spider form. After winning, they find the source of the magical rift between the basement and Spider Valhalla.

Should they perish, they (and the spiders) are revived the following day to do it again. If they win, a new band of adventurers arrive, and the players graduate to tackling greater challenges befitting their skill.